

to devote another day to its consideration. No question has been taken. It will again be called up to-morrow, and I now hope will pass the committee of the whole.

February 13.

In the Senate, this morning, Mr. Benton's resolution again came up for consideration. Mr. Robbins, of Rhode Island, made a most chaste and argumentative speech against it, in its original form. After a few brief remarks by several members, the proposition of Mr. Benton was so amended, as to read, "that so much of the revenue as was necessary ought to be appropriated to the defense of the country." Previous to taking the question on the resolution, as amended, different Senators rose to their places and stated distinctly, the grounds upon which they should vote for it. They did not intend to commit themselves in any manner as to their future votes. When a bill appropriating money for the defense of the country came before them, they should judge of its necessity or expediency and vote accordingly. This appearing to be the general understanding, the question on the resolution, as amended, was taken by yeas and nays, and carried unanimously.

In the House of Representatives, the bill for the relief of the suffering fire in the city of N. York was again taken up in Committee of the Whole. Different amendments were offered and rejected. It met with strong opposition, but generally free of asperity or unkind feelings. There are exceptions to this remark, however, in the early stages of the discussion, and there are those who vaunted and boasted that they by the powers of their eloquence had "killed the bill," and that it could never again be brought up for debate."

At half hour this afternoon, it passed in Committee of the whole, and was reported to the House. The House with great unanimity made it the order of the day for tomorrow, notwithstanding Fridays are set apart for the consideration of private business. I now hope it will be ordered to be engrossed to-morrow for a third reading, and it is possible, but, perhaps, it is exerting too much, that a reconvening session of the House, on its third and final reading, before they adjourn.

Application has been made to the Legislature of Mass., for the incorporation of a Ten million bank. Among the statistical information contained in the petition, was a statement that the Leather Manufacturer interest of Massachusetts was equal to that of all the cotton grown in South Carolina.

Signed—The Jackson Courier and Dayles town Express, Van Buren papers, Lake of Distinction, Bucks county, have been suspended. The Montgomery Democrat, of Newington, Montgomery county, another Van Buren paper, is also about to give up the ghost. The State Journal, an organ of Mahlon Young Garrison, at Harrisburg, has taken refuge in the arms of the Reporter. The Leicester Republican much cr Mahlon Young Garrison print, was discontinued sometime since.

A new Harrison and Granger paper recently has gone up at Liberator, under the title of Liberator Courier.—Union.

The followers of Tom Purdy, located in their anniversary in New York as usual, and drink their customary toasts. Among them we notice the following:

By William Brown—The Liberator:—The nucleus of superstition and fanaticism may the human family become emancipated from its influence, and our hearts abounding no longer as a test of truth.

We predict that the time will come, when Mr. Brown would give the world, if he had it, could be read the impious sentiment and "blot it out forever."

The debate in Senate on the 31. inst., on expanding Resolutions exhibited "the party" in a most ridiculous attitude. Several members avowed themselves in favor of the theory, but against the practical application of the doctrines of instruction. Others voted for the Resolution with the avowal that they would be governed by them if ever brought to bear upon themselves; while all by their manner, evidence, shame and mortification at the pitiful parts they were playing.—All Jour.

The building now occupied by the United States Branch Bank in New York was sold for $100,000, and purchased by the merchants with a view of its being offered to the government for a post office.

The Charleston volunteers now doing duty at St. Augustine, seem inclined to make the time pass as pleasantly as possible, and not having as yet had an opportunity to kill Indians, they contrive all possible ways to kill each other. Among other things they have established a newspaper, filled with jokes, puns, and witicism without number, and which they call the "Volunteers' Gazette." "Appetitus sed non vena" is the motto they have chosen for their paper, and we learn from the Charleston Courier, that a recent number of it contained among other matters, the announcement that a debating club had been established in the garrison, wherein had lately been discussed, the following very puzzling question:—Is it constitutional to compel a man to volunteer?"

A KING ENTITLED TO VOTE.—The subjoined is among the many curious incidents to which the filling up the voting papers, at the Corporation Elections, gave rise. The list of resident householders, at Windsor, entitled to vote contained the following:

NAME. RESIDENCE. PROFESSION.
William the King, G. Britain
Fourth Castle, and Ireland.

The Convicted Incendiaries.—Wednesday the 16th of March, is assigned by the Governor of Mass., for the execution of Simon L. Crockett and Stephen Russell.

Pretty Considerable Cold!—The editor of the Newbern Gazette relates a story about a couple of gentlemen in that neighborhood, who had a fire kindled in their sleeping-room, a few evenings since, and kept it burning all night; on awaking in the morning, they discovered hanging from each end of the big back log "large icicles six or seven inches in length!" The editor of the Gazette says he ain't afraid to put this fact against any thing this side of Ireland.

The Peace Establishment. It was mentioned, in the course of Debate in the House of Representatives, yesterday, that the Committee on Naval Affairs, from whom extraordinary appropriations had been asked for that service to the amount of upwards of six millions, had agreed to report three millions of dollars for that object.

Nat. Int.
A slave seized—The San Nicholas, a vessel designed for the slave trade, fitting out in New York, has been seized by the proper authorities. It was in port that morning, having this vessel and 500 slaves on board, who were fed by throwing rice into the hold.

HEAVEN.

Heaven according to the oft repeated expression of our Saviour, is "within us." It is a quality of the soul, something that we hear about with us, not an outward good, but an inward peace and joy. It is disposition, the character of the affections and habits, which constitute it—no change of place—change of external condition.

"The mind, in a mean place, and in itself,

"Can make a heaven of hell, a hell of heaven."

The guilty, conscience stricken one may fly his home, his acquaintance, his country; he may hide himself in the impenetrable solitudes, but his God still pursues him, conscience still wounds his iron scourge. He may flee away, but, not from himself; nor from his own mind and thoughts, and they are hell. It is not outward torture, nor material fires which make it. It commences with the first moments of conscious guilt. There is a hell of pride, and envy, and worldliness. Every to turing recollection, every anguished thought, the apprehension of the fear, the shame, that appal and rend the heart of the sinner, are so much of hell undergone now.

And so of heaven. It commences with our fitness for its joys; commences with the first virtuous feeling and act of the soul. We enjoy so much of it as we possess true goodness on earth. It is not anything foreign to the mind itself; it is a character or condition of the soul, which causes it to have peace with God, and fits it for the pure glorification of a moral and spiritual life. It is, to use a quaint but expressive phraseology, "the life of God in the soul";—as is the breathing of the holy affections; a spirit moulded into a resemblance of God, and united with him in humility, and love and love—this is Heaven.

New School Book.

THE North American Spelling Book is conform'd to Worcester's Dictionary, with a progressive series of easy reading lessons, by L. W. LEVARD, Author of the Literary and Scientific Class Book and a good Easy Reader.

The following are a few of the many re-commendations of the work, which have been received:

From Hon. J. Parker, Judge of the Superior Court of New Hampshire.

I have examined the North American Spelling Book by Rev. L. W. LEVARD, and commend it to a favorable notice of parents and instructors. The arrangement of the lessons, will, in my opinion, make the progress of the pupil much more easy, and most render the work valuable acquisition.

J. PARKER.
Keene, Nov. 12, 1836.

From Rev. P. Howe.

The North American Spelling Book I consider superior to any thing of the kind, with which I have been acquainted. I cheerfully recommend it to parents and teachers, and sincerely hope it will be introduced into every town and into every school district, for the use of children.

From the "Monitor."

This book differs from those with which we are acquainted in two particular: its conformity to Worcester's Dictionary, a work which is already extensively known and adopted; and which will, we think, soon become the STANDARD WORK in respect to orthography and pronunciation.

It surpasses other works of the kind with which we are acquainted in the judicious classification of words in the spelling columns. In this respect the book is as well suited to carry the point forward by easy and almost imperceptible steps from the simplest to the more difficult words, as is Colburn's Arithmetic to do the like in the solution of mathematical questions.

School Committees and Teachers are respectfully invited to call and examine the work.
